Wheat Vote Sites Given

Voting places for the referendum to be held July 21 on marketing quotas for the 1961 wheat crop have been announced by R. G. Rowell, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The polls will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the following locations:

Farmers Co-op Gin, Stamford; Farmers Co-op Gin, Hamlin; Felts Service Station, Lueders; School House, Nugent; Farmers Co-op Gin, Hodges; Farmers Co-op Gin, Noodle; and County ASC Office, Anson.

Official notices of farm allotments for the 1961 wheat crop are being mailed to farmers this week, according to Baldwin P. Davenport, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Most of the allotments differ only slightly from those of 1960, since the national acreage allotment remains at the minimum of 55 million acres, Davenport said.

He pointed out that all growers who will produce more than 15 acres of wheat as grain in 1961 will be eligible to cast ballots in the July 21 referendum on marketing quotas for the '61 wheat crop. Growers with smaller acreages and those in the feed wheat program are not eligible to vote since their wheat would not be subject to marketing quota penalties.

Davenport said the referendum would decide important questions for wheat producers and he urged all eligible growers to cast a ballot. Marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1961 wheat crop if two-thirds of the growers casting ballots favor their continuance. Too, marketing penalties will apply to the excess wheat of growers not complying with their farm allotments, and price support at not less than 75 percent of parity will be available.

If more than one-third of the voters oppose the quotas, no quotas or penalties will be in effect on the 1961 wheat crop and price support at 50 percent of parity will be available to producers who plant within their farm allotments.

Growers who like to make their own decisions should cast a ballot on July 21, Davenport said. Local announcements will soon be made regarding polling places and opening and closing times for the balloting. Local ASC offices can supply additional information on the referendum or it may also be obtained from community and county ASC committeemen, Davenport said.

MONEY TO BE USED TO BUY RIGHT-A-WAY FOR 277, 380

August 13 has been set as the date for the $200,000 bond election in Jones County Road District 1, of which Hamlin is a part. The funds are to be used to buy right-of-way for the improvement of Highways 277 and 380.

Texas Highway Department has allocated $695,000 for work on 380 and has placed 277 on the calendar for improvement with the state's one-half of right-of-way funds already set aside.

With the exception of a few miles, all of the road work will be done in Jones County Road District 1 and the district will need to supply one-half of the funds to obtain the right of way. To do this, a bond issue will be necessary.

The issue, if approved, could be handled at 4 percent on a 10 year basis at a cost of 21 cents per $100 valuation.

A two-thirds majority of the votes cast is needed to pass the issue.

Plans call for a 130-foot right of way with a two lane 24-foot road with 8-foot paved shoulders on 380. The present road is but 18 feet wide.

Highway 277 would become a four lane freeway such as now exists south of Anson. All of the right-of-way would be obtained on one side of the existing road and an entirely new road would be built as was the

BIRTH CERTIFICATES NEEDED FOR FIRST GRADE CHILDREN

This September, 262,420 children are expected to enter the public schools of Texas for the first time according to estimates of the Texas Education Agency.

Estimates are based on birth records six years ago, immigration estimates and projected birth-to-death ratios.

Nearly all public school districts in Texas require proof of age in the form of a birth certificate or a suitable certified copy stating that they are six years old or before September 1.

During July and August, because of the increased demand for birth certificate copies, the Division of Vital Statistics of the Texas State Department of Health is one of the busiest places in Texas.

At the peak periods more than a thousand requests for copies must be processed daily.

After the request is received with the correct information and fee properly accounted, a card is prepared which serves as a record of the transaction and an aid in locating the original record.

A special searching crew-extra personnel are needed during peak periods-locates the original birth certificate from information furnished on the record card.

Unless there is a complication such as incorrect or incomplete information, searching takes a short while by using an index especially designed for school searchers. The original certificate is photostated, officially signed and sealed, and mailed to the person requesting the copy.

A record is kept of the transaction for accounting purposes with appropriate listings. Parents who have a child entering the first grade this year should check with the superintendent of school regarding local regulations.

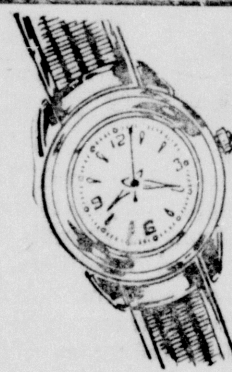

A certified copy of birth may be obtained from a local registrar, county clerk, or the Division of Vital Statistics of the Texas State Department of Health, 410 East 5th Street, Austin, Texas.

Enclose one dollar with child's name, date and place of birth, and the parents' names. (A weekly feature from Public Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Cecil Sellers Attend Livestock Dealers Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sellers returned Sunday from Lexington, Kentucky, where they attended the First National Convention of the National Livestock Dealers Association.

While there, Sellers was elected a director representing the area including Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Colorado. One of the chief duties as director is to interest other dealers of the area in becoming registered dealers and members of the organization. The aim of the organization is to strive to raise the standard of service and have a voice in government legislation in their own behalf.

Forty-two states and Canada were represented in the group of 500 people. The Sellers said Kentucky surely lived up to its reputation as the Hospitality State.

They also noted that one of the most interesting things was the tour of the thoroughbred horse farms where famous race horses were brought out and displayed to the group. Nashua was included in the group. The guide brought group's attention to fences around the farms and stated that they were being replaced on one farm at a cost of one dollar a foot and there would be ten miles of fence.

Henry Clay's home which was toured was made open to the public in 1950, descendants having lived in it up to that time.

Another interesting thing about the trip, the Sellers said, was the jet planes. The return trip from Ft. Worth to Abilene took 40 minutes by jet.

Local Families Attend Reunion Held at Lake Leon

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Young Jr. and Jean and Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Johnson, all of Hamlin, attended the annual reunion of the Shell-Flanagan families at Lake Leon during the Fourth of July weekend.

The three surviving children and their families, and families of the deceased children made up the reunion group. The reunion has been an annual affair since 1955 and plans are being made to hold the 1961 reunion at Lake Leon, near Eastland, again.

The Sunday dinner was served at the sites of the Glynn Kirk, Melvin Shell and Wilbur Shell cabins located on the lake shore. After dinner the group enjoyed fishing, swimming and boating.

Others attending were from Abilene, Sweetwater, Stephenville, Rotan, Gorman, Hutchins, Midland, Odessa, Lubbock, and Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Charles Lindbergh had five ham sandwiches as his only food when he took off for Paris on May 20, 1927, on the first solo non-stop trans-Atlantic flight.

On Friday afternoon from five-thirty till seven o'clock, the home of Mrs. Pope was the scene of beauty and gaiety, when the Woman's Literary Club entertained the ladies of Hamlin at a reception.

Guests were met at the door and introduced to the club officers, then ushered into the dining room where refreshments were served.

Mrs. Norris presided over the meeting and favors were given. Mrs. Russell gave piano selections and Miss Anthony played the Victrola at other intervals.

Mrs. Pope was a gracious hostess to the club and her home was cool, spacious and inviting to both club members and the guests.

On Tuesday, July 13, the businessmen of Hamlin had a meeting. Speeches were made referring to the condition of Hamlin at that present time. It brought more clearly to the minds of the people the needs and the necessities of pulling together.

A chicken supper was served to about 250 persons. As everyone completed the meal they left with a feeling that it was a success.

50 Young Men to Attend CCC Camp

July 12, 1935

Fifty young men will be sent to CCC camps within a few days. The ruling was received in Jones County as approximately fifty borderline cases and unemployed boys who packed the entrance to the Relief Office in April had to be turned away—all hoping for a chance to go at the next enrollment.

This ruling, however, together with our greatly enlarged quota will take from the Jones County Relief rolls almost every family with an eligible member.

The Jones County Relief Cannery began the week of July 5 with two 8-hour shifts daily in an effort to accommodate producers who have corn to can. The two crews of 18 people each are unable to keep up with bookings which are now dated two weeks ahead.

Lone Star Gas Co. To Lease Gas Air-Conditioners

A gas air conditioning unit lease program, believed to be one of the first of its kind in the Southwest, has been announced by Lone Star Gas Company.

Lone Star feels the program will be particularly attractive to business establishments. Certain businesses may accrue tax and conservation of working capital benefits by leasing instead of purchasing equipment. The lease plan also is available to residential customers.

The program, offering two models of Bryant gas air conditioners, gives the lessee an opportunity to obtain summer comfort for a nominal charge with no further concern of such items as maintenance, routine service or capital outlay, a Lone Star official said.

Lone Star chose to offer Bryant unit as it permits installation with a minimum of disturbance to the customer's property. Bryant units are available in 3 and 4 1/2 ton models and are regarded as add-on units. Add-on units are installed outside a building thus requiring no floor space.

The lease term is for a 12 month period. The monthly leasing charge includes delivery and installation of unit, installation of concrete slab, necessary coils, water piping, thermostats and wiring. There will be no charge for service or replacement of any part on the lease equipment, the Lone Star official said.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS

By VERN SANFORD

Texas Press Association AUSTIN—When the various states go to battle to capture new industries, other states go in with cannon-sized budgets. But not Texas.

Texas is, by comparison, fighting with a rubber band and spit balls. At least that's the view of a man who heads the Texas effort, Walter E. Dickerson.

Dickerson, as executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission, directs himself. He has no staff and no secretary. Legislature allotted him $23,750 a year to do a job for which the neighboring "poor" state of Arkansas spends more than a half-million a year.

Dickerson uses his slim funds for a brochure on Texas and, since out-of-state travel is impossible, long distance telephoning. He's also seeking additional funds from Texas firms to carry on the work.

Next winter he'll be before the Legislature to ask for more money to give Texas an even break in the intensely competitive industry-seeking field.

Dickerson's pleas come against a background of warnings that Texas manufacturing has not been growing fast enough to offset the decline of oil and agriculture. Some areas, such as the Gulf Coast, are becoming highly industrialized, but Texas needs more industry all over, say the economists, if it is to avoid a stall.

More manufacture of products for the Texas consumer market is especially recommended. Dickerson has data showing that Texans send $2,500,000,000 of their money out of state to buy manufacturer products.

Dickerson also supports his urging for a beefed-up Industrial Commission with figures showing that new industry is literally "money in the bank" for a town and state.

For each industry with 100 employees—not a particularly big one—bank deposits jump $270,000 and retail sales $360,000 per year.

BUSINESS TOTALS TUMBLE—Texas' most recent business activity reports are not entirely rosy, either.

Retail trade for May was down 2% from April and 4 per cent from a year ago, according to the University Bureau of Business Research.

Building construction was also in a downward spiral, 3 per cent from April and 11 per cent from last year. Building decline between April and May was due to a sharp drop in home building. Non residential construction laws up to 3 per cent.

Slow down in retail buying was unexpected, inasmuch as employment, income and savings are at an all-time high. An increase in home building is hoped for as a result of eased FHA down payment requirements. More home buying would, in turn, stimulate more retail buying particularly furniture, appliances and hardware.

GAS TAX LOSES ROUND—Texas' new natural gas severance beneficiary tax flunked its first court test when an Austin district judge ruled it unconstitutional.

Judge Jack Roberts held the tax violated the U. S. Constitution's prohibition against levying a tax on interstate commerce. Severance beneficiary tax is aimed at the natural gas pipeline companies who, the tax's supporters contend, benefit from taking the gas from Texas soil and should pay a tax for these benefits. Most pipelines operate on a national scale. Producers, the people who actually take the gas from the ground, already pay a tax.

Attor. Gen. Will Wilson, representing the state, said he would appeal Roberts' decision, probably to the Third Court of Civil Appeals. Since the case involves a constitutional question, it could be appealed to the State Supreme Court.

Either way, it will not finally be decided until it gets to the U. S. Supreme Court, possibly not in time for the next legislature to know whether the state can count on any revenue from that source. Estimated yield is about $7,500,000 a year.

Gov. Price Daniel said he was "keenly disappointed" in the district court decision, especially in that it saw no difference between the severance gas gathering tax which lost out in the courts.

Daniel said he was confident this tax eventually would be upheld.

BIGGER BUDGETS ASKED—Three state agencies presented their requests for funds for the Sept. 1, 1961-Aug. 31, 1963 period. All want more than they are now spending.

Legislative and governor's office budget staffs are reviewing the requests of State Health Department, State Board of Insurance and Texas Employment Commission.

Health wants an 18 per cent increase to a total of $17,000,000 for the coming biennium. State Board of Insurance is asking $5,173,664 for the same period, approximately a 20 per cent increase. TEC estimates its needs at $28,384,905.

STRAY LIVESTOCK LAW IN FORCE—Farmers are warned to pen up their livestock and keep them penned, or be subject to a $200 fine and impoundment of the animals.

Each day the animals roam at large will be considered a separate offense.

The new law relates to horses, donkeys, cows, bulls, steers, hogs, sheep and goats loose on state and federal highways. Farm and ranch roads are not included.

An increasing number of deaths and injuries due to auto collisions with stray animals necessitated the law.

Bill Bowman, formerly of Hamlin, now pastoring the Palm Street Baptist Church in Corpus Christi, Texas. Singing will be led by the pastor of Fairview Baptist Church, Rev. Doyle Combs. Members of the church all urge anyone that can come to be with them in this series of revival services.

OUTER SPACE PICTURES START SUNDAY AT HAMLIN THEATRES

The first landing of Earthmen on the moon is almost a minor incident in Columbia Pictures' "Battle in Outer Space," which opens Sunday at the Hamlin Theatres. More important is their assignment—to halt, if they can, the attack of outlaw spacemen on the planet Earth. A Toho production filmed in Tohoscope and Eastman Color, the new science-fiction thriller reportedly is a spectacular, eye-opening example of movie-making art.

After destroying the enemy spacemen's advance fortress on the moon, Earth's first space expedition returns to alert the world, giving it time to prepare for the film's climactic battle in outer space between Earth's fighter rockets and the outlaw spacemen's flying saucers.

Featured in "Battle in Outer Space" are Ryo Ikebe, Kyoko Anzai, Lenard Stanford, Harold Conway, George Whyman and Elise Richter. Shinichi Sekizawa's screenplay is based on a story by Jotaro Kami. Inoshiro Honda directed for producer Tomoyuki Tanaka, while Eiji Tsuburaya is credited with the exciting special effects of "Battle in Outer Space."

And on the same bill is the story of the first space conquerors. "12 To The Moon" is said to depict the first rocketship expedition, internationally sponsored and organized, with the ten men and two women astronauts landing on the moon. There, although they find no external evidences of human habitation, mysterious incidents make known to the space explorers the fact that intelligent beings, possessing a science vastly superior to the Earthlings, dwell in a great sealed-off area below the crust of the moon.

The Earthmen are expelled from the moon by the moon beings who, fearful of destructive forces from Earth may imperil them, cause a cold wave to envelop our own world, threatening its destruction.

JULY 24-30 PROCLAIMED AS FARM SAFETY WEEK IN TEXAS

Governor Price Daniel by proclamation has designated the week of July 24-30 as Farm Safety Week in Texas. This same period has also been designated as National Farm Safety Week by the President of the United States.

In his proclamation, Governor Daniel said: "The Nation's economy is dependent upon the continued well-being and progress of our State's agricultural population. Accidents from farm work cause needless suffering, distress and loss of life each year among our rural families."

"By directing the attention of our rural residents to safety education, such worthwhile programs now being conducted can greatly reduce accidents. I urge all Texas farm families to increase their vigilance against needless accidents and further encourage interested organizations and individuals to participate in this program."

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council points out that the purpose of the special week is to focus attention on the year-round need for reducing the number of farm accidents, and to cause those who can do something about the problem, to act. The farmer and his family, says the Council, must carry safety into their everyday lives. Nationally, they add, farm accidents cost one and a quarter billion dollars annually, a sizeable sum any way you take it.

The ever-tightening cost-price squeeze faced by agriculturists makes accident prevention even more important, says the Council, because a single costly accident can just about squeeze out the profits from most farm enterprises.

The Council joins Governor Daniels in urging rural residents and organizations to make safety their number one project for the months ahead.

4H Dress Review To Be Held in Anson, July 28

The 13 year old winner will enter her garment in the Junior Division of the District III Dress Review at Wichita Falls the latter part of August.

The winner of the 14 year old and above group will enter her dress in the Senior Division of the District Review.

The four top winners of the District Dress Review will enter their dresses at the State Fair at Dallas.

Defoliants Used On Cotton Now Controlled by Law

Effective March 5, 1960, defoliants and desiccants came under the regulations of Public Law 518. The basis for the control program on farm chemicals is to prevent undue risk from residues of the chemicals in the raw agricultural product.

Certain of these chemicals, however, have been granted an extension by the Food and Drug Administration, explains Fred Elliott, extension cotton work specialist. The extension is good until March 5, 1961, he says.

Any defoliant or desiccant used will eventually have tolerances or an exemption from tolerances designated for its safe use or will be registered on a nonresidue basis. Until official Federal regulations are issued governing the use of a specific defoliant or desiccant, it should not be used, Elliott warns.

In a recently published Texas Agricultural Extension Service leaflet, Elliott lists the chemicals that have been granted this extension, and gives a guide for their use. This leaflet may be obtained from the local county agent or from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Ask for L-145.

Joe League, Hurt In Houston Wreck, Recovering

Joe League of Houston is in an army base hospital there recuperating from injuries received in an automobile accident June 23 near the Houston city limits.

He was badly injured with deep cuts on his left arm, bruised chest, broken ribs, and injuries to his nose which required extensive plastic surgery.

His wife, Bette, suffered minor injuries and shock. League had just completed basic training at Fort Ord, California and the couple was coming to Hamlin to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Teague and Mr. and Mrs. Joe League, when the accident occurred.

AREA COTTON ROOT ROT LOSS MAY BE HIGH

If rains occur during June, July and August, cotton root rot losses will be high. This prediction comes from Dr. Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist. He bases it on the amount of disease carry-over in the soil from last year, and the late cotton crop. The disease occurs in all areas of the state except the Panhandle, High Plains and sandy soils of East Texas.

It is known that the disease fungus is carried over in the form of seed bodies or sclerotia. A minimum of 25 to 30 of these sclerotia per cubic foot of soil are necessary to cause disease. Due to the large amount of root rot the past two years, a high count of sclerotia are present in all infested soils, according to Smith.

When cotton roots grow close to the sclerotia in moist soil, the seed bodies of the fungus germinate and attack the cotton root. Within a few days large patches of dead cotton appear.

The disease is nearly always more damaging on late than on early cotton. Early cotton is more likely to escape some of the damage.

Smith advises growers to start planning preventive measures immediately for the 1961 cotton crop. Deep plowing, 10 to 14 inches deep, with a mold board or disc type plow is recommended. In a few areas, because of the type of sub-soil, this will not be possible. However, deep plowing to as great a depth as possible will be helpful in reducing root rot, the following year, he says.

Local county agents can supply copies of the publication MP-361, "Root Rot Losses of Cotton Can Be Reduced," and additional information on practices which will aid in reducing plant disease losses.

If you can't control your temper, you can't control your driving.

DEEP PLOWING BEST METHOD TO FIGHT COTTON ROOT ROT

Deep plow 1961 root rot infested cotton land as soon as possible. This advice comes from Dr. Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist.

Deep plowing is most effective in reducing root rot if no rain occurs for at least two weeks after plowing according to Smith. A lot of hot, dry weather generally occurs during July and August thus making them good months in which to deep plow.

Smith goes on to explain that drying out the soil for 2 weeks or more after plowing helps to kill the root rot fungus by drying, aeration and killing roots of susceptible weeds. Check the long range weather forecasts and try to select a time for deep plowing when dry weather is expected, he advises. Deep-plow 10 to 14 inches or deeper with a mold board or disc type plow. Bedding or listing is ineffective in reducing cotton root rot.

Because of late cotton harvests in north Texas, many growers deep-plow small grain stubble or early grain sorghum land during July and August. This land is then used for cotton the following year.

Ask the local extension agents for a copy of MP-361 "Root Rot Losses of Cotton Can Be Reduced." Smith suggests that renters of cotton land send a copy of the publication to their landlord. Landowners will be interested in helping carry out a cotton root rot reduction program because it will increase the farm income and increase the value of the land.
